

Markus Knell
Oesterreichische Nationalbank
Economic Studies Division

Biography

Markus Knell has studied philosophy, sociology and economics at the University of Vienna, the University of California (San Diego) and the University of Zurich. He has held positions as assistant professor at the Universities of Vienna and Zurich and is currently working in the research department of the Austrian National Bank. His research focuses on question of macroeconomic and monetary policy, on wage-setting and on pension systems and he has published numerous articles on these topics in international journals.